ERRATA

Due to a misunderstanding, the arrangement of the chapters was not made alphabetical as stated in the Foreword, but was based upon the previous edition of the Catalog. In all chapters except two the plan of beginning and ending upon separate leaves was carried out. The error has been corrected by inserting a special section before finally trimming the book. This section will be found between pages Mo. A 6 and Mo. A 7, and includes pages O. A 13, all of Ky. A, Pa. G and Tex. A. Due to a desire to save the printer the extra trouble and expense, the incorrect leaves have not been thrown out. This may readily be done by the possessor of the book and the chapters may then be arranged as desired.

FOREWORD.

1916

THIS third edition of the catalog was made necessary by the exhaustion of the previous edition. A year or so after the issue of the latter the idea of converting it into a loose-leaf book and furnishing supplements with THE BENT was conceived, and has gradually evolved until this edition is issued in loose-leaf form only. Supplements will be issued with the January and July numbers of THE BENT, and with THE BENT only, except when an entire new catalog is purchased. With the January number will appear the corrected data for the class graduated the previous summer and a list giving the names and addresses of the members who will graduate during the ensuing summer. With the July number will be given such alumni corrections as seem practical. During preparation of this issue no supplements have been issued. The last one appeared in January, 1914.

In the preparation of the material for this edition, due to its considerable bulk and from motives of economy, no special letter was written to the membership in general; but the chapters were held responsible for the correctness of the data. After hearing from the chapters, efforts were made to get in direct touch with all members whose data the chapters were unable to report in full, and consequently a large percentage of the information is first hand. Doubtless a large percentage also is wrong, and remarks in our previous edition concerning the celerity with which our members change their locations and render it practically impossible to keep track of them, are fitting at this time also.

As in the case of the previous edition, this catalog is arranged in three divisions, Chapter, Geographical and Alphabetical. In the first the chapters are arranged in alphabetical order. A chronological list of the chapters will be found on pages 4 and 5. The names in each chapter are arranged according to classes, and alphabetically in each. All information that seems desirable is given in this index. In the geographical index the names only are arranged according to location, and by cross reference to Chapter and Class the addresses may be found. The third index, as its name indicates, gives the names alphabetically, and cross references are made in the same way. This arrangement has proved satisfactory, and gives complete information with least bulk. The paging begins anew with each chapter or division, so the arrangement may be varied to suit the possessor. The paging plan will be continued in issuing supplements.

The January supplements will contain additions to the Alphabetical list also; but it is practically impossible to issue satisfactory changes for the Geographical list. All lists will be kept as nearly up-to-date as possible by the Secretary, however, and information may be obtained from his office.

Complete copy for the catalog was sent to the printer March 15, but the insertion of a large number of corrections which have been received since that time has helped to delay the issue. The material is practically ready for the press at this writing, however. The table of membership on page 8 contains a list of total members initiated to the date given, but the catalog does not list all these. This table was first made out on the basis of the membership to March 1, and the copy was arranged accordingly. Such names have been added from those initiated since that date as appeared feasible, and wherever possible the 1917 men have been added if this could be done without increasing the number of leaves already arranged for.

It is hoped that the catalog in its present form will prove of use to the members, and that by means of the semi-annual supplements, a reasonable up-to-dateness may be secured. The Secretary will be glad to receive all corrections from any members or from others who may care to report same.

June 26, 1916. R. C. MATTHEWS.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

*, the Asterisk, signifies a deceased member.

†, the Dagger signifies the last known address, either thought or known to be incorrect.

‡, the Double Dagger, indicates members now out of college from whom word has come directly within the past few months.

(h) indicates the Home or Most Permanent address.

(r) is used in a few cases to indicate the Residence address; (m) for mailing address.

(C.E.) The degree in parenthesis indicates the Course, in cases where the course was not completed.

Higher degrees are held from the Alma Mater if no other College is given.

Degrees for the members of classes still in College are prospective.

When no city is given in the last line for the data in the Chapter index, the member's business is located in the same place as his home.

THE BENT of Tau Beta Pi was established by the Ninth Convention, and was published by the Alpha Chapter of Pennsylvania for two years. Until 1913 it was in the hands of an Alumni Board. Since that time the business affairs have been conducted with those of the Executive Council. While experiencing most of the vicissitudes of a new journal of its class, it filled a positive place in the activities of the Society, and has been an indispensable means of unifying the various chapters in a comprehensive organization. Action by the Thirteenth Convention, requiring all regular members to subscribe to the quarterly for three years, has put it on its feet financially, and by insuring a large circulation has made it of more value to the members of the Society.
